

YANKS TIE SERIES BY WINNING, 12-0

Ford Checks Pirates With 7 Hits—Deciding Contest in Pittsburgh Today

By JOHN DREBINGER

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—The world series of 1960 is still with us and so are the Yankees.

Fighting grimly behind their stout-hearted little left-hander, Whitey Ford, the Bombers today erupted for the third time in the series with a bruising offensive. It crushed the Pirates, 12 to 0, and tied the series at three victories apiece.

The entire struggle, therefore, will be settled in a seventh and final game at Forbes Field tomorrow at 1 P. M.

While the majority in a crowd of 38,580 sat in stunned and sullen silence, the New Yorkers unloaded a seventeen-hit attack as Ford gained his second successive shutout victory of the series.

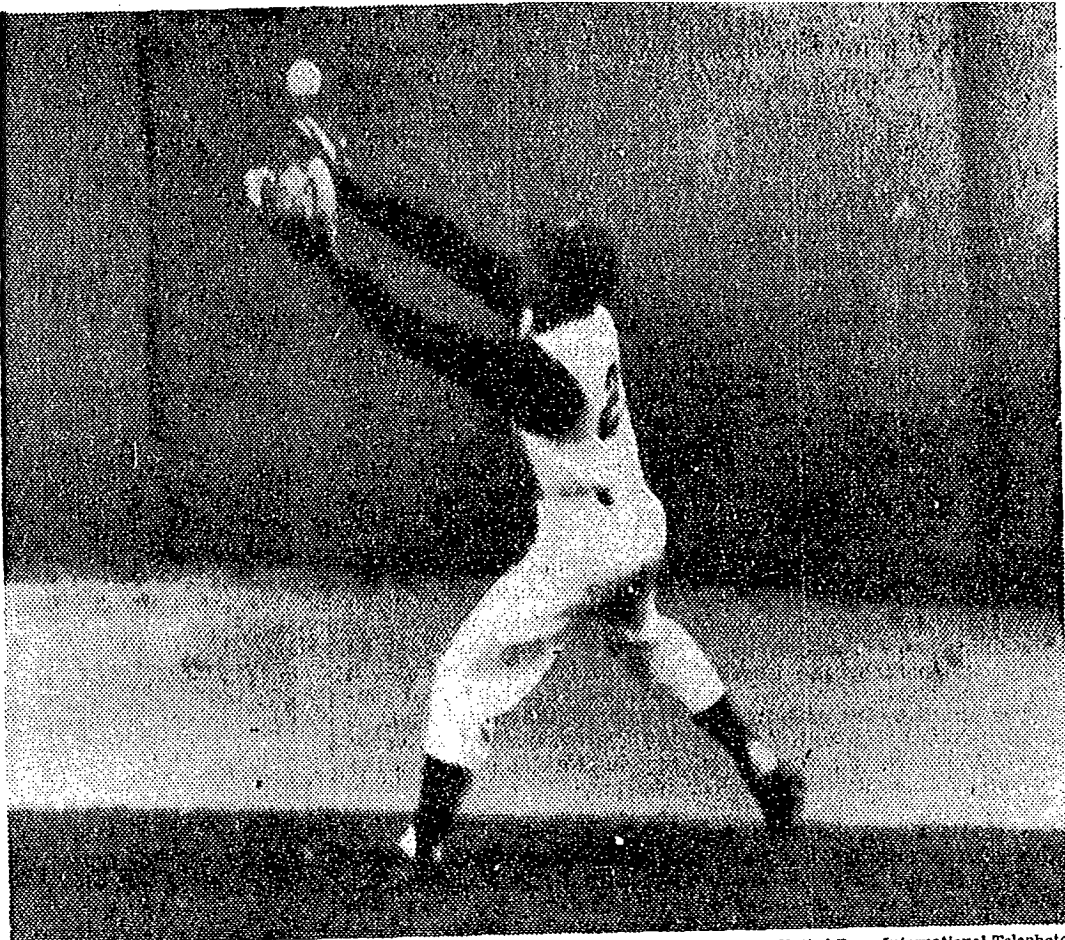

What made Ford's performance more remarkable was the fact that the compact southpaw from Lake Success, L. I., who will be 32 years old on Oct. 21, achieved it after only three days' of rest. He is accustomed to four or five. Ford had shut out

Continued on Page 44, Column 6

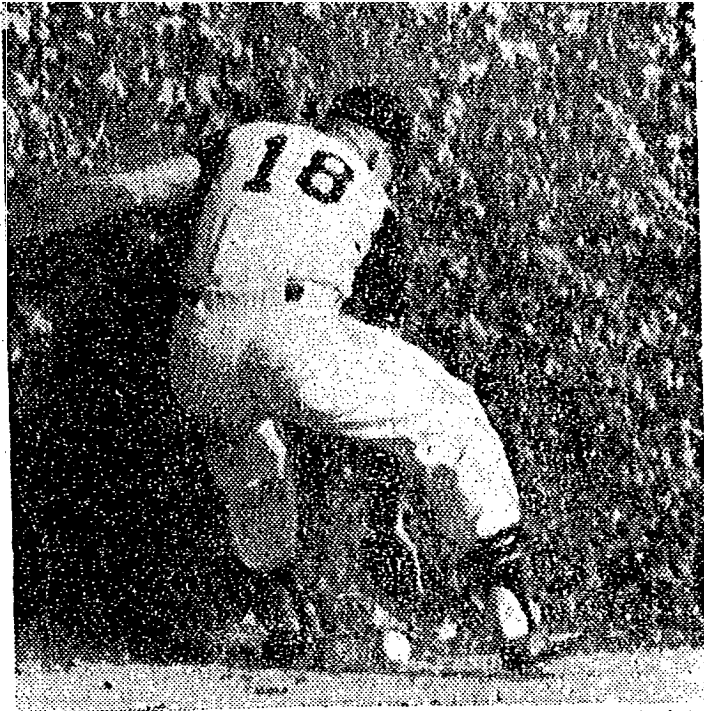

United Press International Telephoto

OFF THE WALL: Gino Cimoli, left fielder of Pirates, chases Bobby Richardson's triple in the third inning.

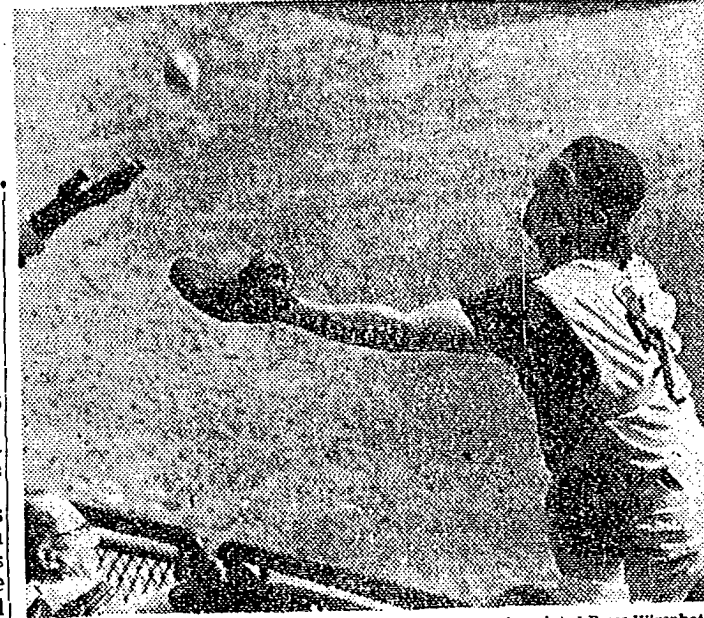

United Press International Telephoto

ANOTHER TRIPLE, hit by Cletis Boyer, is handled by Roberto Clemente in sixth.

Associated Press Wirephoto

... AND ANOTHER TRIPLE is added to Yankees' attack by Richardson as Bill Virdon of Pirates retrieves the ball.

Associated Press Wirephoto

HAND AND GLOVE: Hal Smith, Pirates' catcher, and a fan fail to get foul hit by Roger Maris in the fourth.

YANKS TIE SERIES, ROUT PIRATES, 12-0

Continued From Page 1, Col. 6

the Pirates in New York last Saturday on four hits. The Yanks won that one, 10-0.

Ford allowed seven hits this time but was every bit as much the master of the situation as he had been when he put the Bombers in front in that pivotal third game.

It was not until this morning that Manager Casey Stengel decided to start Whitey and only after Ford had assured him his arm felt sufficiently rested. Casey never had cause to regret his choice.

This was Whitey's first world series victory away from Yankee Stadium. He has won seven and lost four series games.

As for Danny Murtaugh, the harried skipper of the Pirates for the third time in the series found it necessary to hurl six pitchers into a game.

Danny had counted heavily on his right-hander, Bob Friend, winning this one, which would have given Pittsburgh its first world championship in thirty-five years.

But Friend collapsed in the midst of a five-run third inning, the third biggest Yankee inning of the series. After that, it was the same sort of debacle as the second and third games.

There were no homers, but little Bobby Richardson touched off two triples and set a world series record for runs batted in. John Blanchard, an early replacement for Elston Howard as Yankee catcher, smacked two doubles and a single. Roger Maris also contributed three hits, while Cletis Boyer had a triple.

The Bucs' seven hits all were singles and they bunched two in one inning just once. Only one Pirate advanced so far as third. This was in the fifth when, with a 6-0 lead, Ford had his one anxious moment.

Hal Smith singled and Don Hoak walked. Smith moved to third, but only because Bill Mazeroski grounded into a double play. Rocky Nelson, a pinch-hitter, struck out and that ended the Bucs' last threat.

The Yanks, however, suffered one setback. Howard was struck on the right hand by a stray pitch by Friend in the second inning. He was rushed to a hospital, where it was reported that Elston had suffered a complete fracture of the fifth metacarpal and was finished for the series.

Blanchard will catch again tomorrow with the versatile Yogi Berra staying in left field. Stengel said he would pitch either Bob Turley, who probably would have started today had Ford not been right, or Bill Stafford, the rookie right-hander who did a fine, though futile, relief job in the fifth game.

Murtaugh's outlook was far from glum despite the heavy thrashing his Bucs took. For Danny has primed for tomorrow's decisive encounter his crack right hander, Vernon Law, who already has defeated the Yankees twice.

Right behind Law will be the relief specialist, Elroy Face. He saved both of Law's victories as well as the one gained by Harvey Haddix.

Gay Gathering at Start

As in the three days in New York, the weather was perfect. The summery afternoon had the fans, especially those along the left-field side of the sun-bathed stands and bleachers, peeling off their wraps and coats.

It was, at the outset, a gay gathering. Many in the crowd doubtless were wondering how they had got to see the series again.

Their last view of it had been last Thursday when the Bucs, after an unmerciful lambasting in the second game, slipped quietly out of town. The next game, in New York, saw the Bucs take that 10-0 shellacking and that seemed to convince some folks here they had seen the last of this year's series.

The Bucs were back, though, and the fans were ready to cheer at the slightest provocation. They cheered lustily as Friend retired the first three Yankee batters in the first inning and there was more noise as Bill Virdon opened the Pirate first with a single to center.

Dick Groat, however, grounded into a double play. Bob Clemente

The Box Score

SIXTH GAME

NEW YORK YANKEES

	AB.	R.	H.	REI.	PO.	A.
Boyer, 3b.....	6	1	1	0	0	5
Kubek, ss, lf.....	5	2	1	1	2	4
Maris, rf.....	5	1	3	0	1	0
Mantle, cf.....	4	2	1	2	2	0
Berra, lf.....	4	3	3	2	0	0
DeMaestri, ss.....	0	0	0	0	0	2
Skowron, 1b.....	4	0	2	1	13	0
Howard, c.....	0	0	0	0	1	0
aGrba.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
Blanchard, c.....	4	2	3	1	4	1
Richardson, 2b.....	5	1	2	3	4	6
Ford, p.....	4	0	1	2	0	1
Total.....	41	12	17	12	27	19

PITTSBURGH PIRATES

	AB.	R.	H.	REI.	PO.	A.
Virdon, cf.....	4	0	1	0	4	0
Groat, ss.....	4	0	1	0	1	1
Witt, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
Clemente, rf.....	4	0	2	0	4	0
Stuart, 1b.....	4	0	0	0	10	0
Cimoli, lf.....	4	0	1	0	1	0
Smith, c.....	4	0	2	0	4	0
Hoak, 3b.....	2	0	0	0	1	1
Mazeroski, 2b.....	3	0	0	0	2	7
Friend, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	2
Cheney, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
bBaker.....	1	0	0	0	0	0
Mizell, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
cNelson.....	1	0	0	0	0	0
Green, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
Labine, p.....	0	0	0	0	0	0
dSchofield, ss.....	1	0	0	0	0	0
Total.....	32	0	7	0	27	11

aRan for Howard in second.
bStruck out for Cheney in third.
cStruck out for Mizell in fifth.
dGrounded out for Labine in eighth.

New York.....015 002 220-12
Pittsburgh.....000 000 000-0
Errors—Kubek, Virdon. Double plays—Richardson, Kubek and Skowron; Boyer, Richardson and Skowron 2; Groat, Mazeroski and Stuart; Hoak, Mazeroski and Stuart. Left on bases—New York 8, Pittsburgh 6.

Two-base hits—Maris, Skowron. Blanchard. Three-base hits—Richardson 2, Boyer. Sacrifice—Ford. Sacrifice fly—Skowron.

IP. H. R. ER.
*Friend (L.).....2 5 5 3
Mizell.....1 2 1 1
iGreen.....0 3 2 2
Labine.....3 6 4 4
Witt.....1 0 0 0
Ford (W.).....9 7 0 0
*Faced 4 batters in third. iFaced 3 batters in sixth.

Bases on balls—Off Friend 1 (Berra), Mizell 1 (Mantle), Ford 1 (Hoak). Struck out—By Friend 1 (Boyer), Cheney 1 (Ford), Mizell 1 (Maris), Labine 1 (Mantle), Ford 5 (Stuart, Baker, Groat, Cimoli, Nelson). Hit by pitcher—By Friend 2 (Howard, Kubek). Wild pitch—Labine.

Umpires—Stevens (A.), plate; Jackowski (N.), first base; Chylak (A.), second; Boggs (N.), third; Landes (N.), left field; Honochick (A.), right field. Time of game—2:38.

folk. ved with a single to right, but Ford fanned Dick Stuart.

In the New York second, after Mickey Mantle had gone out on a tap to the mound, Berra drew a walk. He raced to third on Bill Skowron's single to right.

Friend, working cautiously, tossed one too close and cracked Howard on the right hand, filling the bases. This forced Howard to leave the game and Eli Grba ran for him.

Grba became the last of the fifty eligible players—twenty-five on each team—to get into the series. All of the Pirates had seen action when Haddix started the fifth game.

Ford, a better than average hitting pitcher, slapped a sharp one-bouncer to Friend. The ball caromed off Bob's glove to his right. He recovered for a throw to the plate that was just too late to force Berra. Ford received credit for a single and a run batted in.

A great sigh of relief followed when Friend fanned Boyer. Cletis was back in the starting lineups as the third baseman for the first time since the series opener and was leading off as well.

In the third, the Yanks tore loose on another one of their batting rampages. They didn't match their cluster of seven in the sixth inning of the second game or their batch of six in the first inning of the third game, but five big runs proved more than enough.

Tony Kubek, leading off, was hit by a pitch. Maris drove a two-bagger off the right-field screen, Tony pulling up at third.

Mantle hammered a single into center, scoring Kubek and Maris. When Berra followed with a single to center, chasing Mickey to third, that finished Friend.

With none out, two runs in and runners on first and third, Murtaugh called on Tom Cheney, a rookie right-hander. Cheney didn't improve matters.

Skowron lifted a sacrifice fly to deep right and Mantle scored, Blanchard singled to center, sending Berra to second, and then Richardson un-dered one.

He blasted a drive to left which caromed off the scoreboard. It was good for a triple, scoring Berra and Blanchard with the final two runs of the inning.

The blow gave Richardson a world series runs-batted-in record of eleven, which four innings later he raised to twelve. The former record had been ten, set by Berra in a seven-game series in 1956 and tied by Ted Kluszewski of the White Sox in last October's six-game series.

After that, nothing mattered much. Vinegar Bend Mizell, the lefty the Yanks had handled roughly in the third game, kept them quiet through the fourth and fifth.

Mizell vacated for a pinch-hitter in the fifth, though, and the Pirate pitching went sour again. Fred Green, a left-hander, faced only three batters in the sixth. Boyer tripled to right-center and scored on Kubek's single. When Maris singled, Clem Labine replaced Green.

Berra Drives in a Run

The one-time Dodger right-hander could not prevent Berra from driving in a second tally with a single, but he got the side out.

This was just a breather for Labine, against whom the Yanks picked up two quick runs in the seventh. Blanchard doubled.

He scored on Richardson's second triple and Bobby scampered home on a deft squeeze hunt by Ford. That gave Whitey his second run batted in for the day.

Finding Labine still around, the Bombers belted him for two more in the eighth. Maris singled. He was forced by Mantle, who scooted to second on a wild pitch and scored on Berra's third single.

To this the arm and leg weary Virdon added a fumble that put Yogi on second. When Blanchard weighed in with his second double, Berra crossed with the final tally.

The twelve runs gave the Yanks a total of forty-six runs, a world series record. Their total of seventy-eight hits for the six games is still another series mark.